THE DR. ARNO ROSCHER ENDOWED LECTURE

Despite elaborate characterization of risk factors, bladder cancer is still a major epidemiological problem and the ninth most common malignancy worldwide. Urothelial carcinoma is now recognized as a disease of alterations in several cellular processes. Clinical trials for targeted chemotherapy for bladder cancer have commenced, and future trials will aim to treat urothelial carcinoma based on a patient's molecular profile to empower physicians to personalize patient treatment through increased therapeutic efficacy. The future of bladder cancer management will rely on the use of detection techniques that reliably diagnose the presence of disease, marker panels that predict individual tumor behavior, and molecular targets that allow deployment of novel therapeutics. Participants in this special lecture will have improved comprehension of detection and treatment options for bladder cancer.
